The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, November 24. 1714.

THE following Address was presented to his Majesty on Monday the 22d Instant, 1714. by Captain Henry Stanyford and Mr. Thomas Blanckley of Portsmouth; which Address was very graciously received, and they had the Honour to kiss his Majesty's Hand, being introduced by his Grace the Duke of Marlborough.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Gentlemen, Merchants, Freemen, and principal Inhabitants of your Borough of Portsmouth in the County of Southampton.

PERMIT us, most gracious Sovereign, with passionate, with even transporting Joy, to congratulate your Majesty on your late, your seasonable Accession to the British Throne.

The Memory of William your immortal Predecessor will be ever dear to us; dear for the great Deliverance he wrought, dear for the glorious Toils he underwent, and Hazards to which he for our sakes exposed himself; but more peculiarly dear for projecting and procuring the Settlement of the British Crown on your Illustrious House: A Settlement from which we promise our selves the greatest Blessings to us and our Posterity, and which we ever looked upon as under Providence, the Security of our Religion and Liberties. To see it now take Place in spite of open Enemies abroad, and their hardy disguised Confederates at home, and at a Juncture when it was almost beyond the reach of our Hopes, puts an Accent on the Blessing, and exalts our Joy to Transport.

We heard the Memory of our great Deliverer reviled, his glorious Undertaking disparaged and reproached, and Principles advanced and countenanced by Persons worked into Power, that overturned your Right to your Dominions. We saw the Advantages gained by the most glorious and successful War thrown up at once by an inglorious Peace, faithful Allies deserted, the solemn Faith of Nations ridiculed, and Conquerours made to stoop to the Demands of those whom they had overcome. We beheld our Trade in its most valuable Branches neglected, the avowed Enemies of your Title connived at, caressed, advanced, and the most zealous Friends to your Succession reproached as Enemies to your immediate Predecessor, and removed from honourable Posts and Offices, and violent Prosecutions commenced and carried on against those Members of corporate Bodies that were most hearty in your Interests, and the Authority and Treasure of the Nation abused and misapplied to crush your Friends. Nay, suffer us to say, that some among our selves were dispossessed of our Rights for no other Reason that we know than our Fidelity to the late Queen and Zeal for your Succession. But in the critical Juncture God was pleased to send your Majesty to scatter our Fears. Under your just and wise Administration we assure our selves of the Redress of every Grievance, and that the Nation's Honour will be carried to its utmost height: On such a Prospect allow us, mighty Prince, to confess our Joy unutterable.

May your Majesty as a chief favourite of Heaven long long Reign over us in Peace and great Renown, blessed with a wise and faithful Ministry concerned (as they ought to be) for your Majesty's Honour and their Country's Interest. May you live beloved by your Subjects and dreaded by your Enemies: And may there never fail a Race of Royal Heroes in a Lineal Descent from you to wear the Crown of Britain with Honour and Renown till Time shall be no more.

Hamburgh, Nov. 17. 'Letters from Copenhagen say, 'That while the Reasons the Court will give for 'their late Proceeding against Count Steinbock are 'expected, it is reported that 'tis founded upon some 'Original Papers found in a Chest which he had sent 'to Lubeck some time ago, and was return'd to Copenhagen in an extraordinary manner, whereby 'tis 'said Matters of great Importance are discovered. 'The Commissaries established by his Danish Majesty, 'to examine the Grievances of the Holsteiners from the 'Abuses committed by the Danish Troops, have near 'finished their Commission. But in the mean time 'they have Decreed a new Capitation in all the 'Towns of Holstein, which is more severe than the 'former, and the Payment of it is demanded in a 'very short time. This, and the Preparations made 'by exercising the Troops in a more exact Order 'than ever, and commanding them to be always ready for Service, make us believe that a Winter 'Campaign is meditated. We hear from Hanover, 'That all the Troops of that Electorate have been 'lately review'd, and they talk of augmenting each 'Company of Foot with 16 Men, and each Troop of 'Horse with six Men. By Letters from Berlin we 'hear, That his Prussian Majesty is returned from Pomerania to Wusterhausen, and they talk much of 'some new Regiments which that King is about to 'levy, for which Commissions are already sign'd, and 'will soon be given out. From Pomerania, we hear, 'That when the King of Sweden arrived at Stralsund, 'he went directly to General Dueker, who could 'not know him, till he had put off the black Periwig 'which he does not wear ordinarily, but put on to be 'the less known upon the Road. He left his Troops 'at Cronstadt, and travell'd so fast by fresh Horses 'from Post to Post, that General During, who accompanied him, was so fatigued, that he is obliged to 'keep his Bed. And 'tis even said the King himself 'suffers from it, for the old Wound he formerly received in his Foot is broke out anew, and he has 'been obliged to make use of Surgeons. Letters 'from Saxony advise, That the great warlike Preparations which the Swedes are making in the Dutchy 'of Deuxponts, have given much Jealousy, and made 'the King of Poland change his Intention of tarrying 'some time at Warsaw; and 'tis likely that some of 'the Saxon Troops that are now in Poland will be 'sent into Saxony, where the Militia, to the Number of 30000 Men, have been summoned to be ready to march towards the Frontiers of Thuringen, 'and a Camp will be immediately formed there of 'some thousands of Men. Moreover General Fleming is daily expected at Dresden, to make all necessary Dispositions to prevent an Invasion of the Swedes into that Electorate.
